Dear Cape Staff and Families:

Prior to beginning a new week and the kick-off of our remote learning opportunities, I want to pause for a moment to thank all of you for your continued support, understanding, and encouragement. This comes at a time when many of our families, including our staff members, are under a great deal of stress at work and home.

Please know that our entire district team has been working hard behind the scenes to provide remote learning opportunities to each of our nearly 6,000 students. This may look different at each grade level or subject area, but will provide each and every student a connection with a teacher/staff member and learning opportunities during our time away from school.

It is important to know that we are here to support you during this time. We expect that most remote learning days will run smoothly, but we also expect bumps along the way. If you experience issues related to internet access or the online platform you are using, please inform your teacher and/or principal so that we are aware, and so that we can, if necessary, post information related to your issue and possible solutions to our website and/or social media accounts. Please continue to work with us as these bumps are just that – bumps – that will decrease as we refine our work and the systems catch up to the traffic being generated by our new reality.

Finally, I would like to take time to address the health care workers, first responders, service/food industry workers, truck drivers and countless others that are keeping our communities safe and operating. Thank you for your service to our community and the nation as we fight this pandemic from all fronts.

We are looking forward to launching our new learning system on Monday, and we believe that any challenges we encounter will only make us stronger, more connected, and push us to greater successes in the future.

Thank you for your continued support and take care of yourself and your families!

Sincerely,

Bob Fulton
Superintendent
